Alexa Wilkinson Lullaby Appetite

20-year-old singer-songwriter Alexa Wilkinson is on tour opening for Josh Kelley through May 4th. I was fortunate enough to see her perform last night at the Granada Theatre on the Dallas stop of the tour. I talked to Alexa after the show and bought her new CD "Lullaby Appetite."

"Of Graves" is the first single from the new album of 11 original songs, all written or co-written by Wilkinson herself. Her debut CD, Lullaby Appetite, is now available on iTunes, and will be nationally released in June on DNK Records. Alexa shares some song writing credits with Ben Carter, who also plays some killer lead guitar.

Having taken up music at the age of 10, Wilkinson learned trumpet, then guitar, and then the joys and sorrows of songwriting. Her fresh expressive vocals grab you right away. The lyrics beckon you into the storyline of each song, rich with emotion. The acoustic sound of her music is instantly likeable. You can hear the passion for every song in her voice.

Josh Kelley, an accomplished singer-songwriter promoting his third album on this tour, took notice of Alexa's talent and by July of 2006, had collaborated on and produced five of her songs. Other collaborators with Alexa include Michael Brauer (Coldplay, Paul McCartney, and Grammy winner John Mayer), David Thoener (Matchbox 20, Faith Hill, and Santana), and Greg Calbi (John Lennon, Paul Simon, Bruce Springsteen, and Lenny Kravitz.)

Josh Kelley comments about Alexa:

"I was immediately impressed with Alexa's music—she is an extremely talented singer and songwriter whose unique sound will no doubt propel her to the top. She's got such a natural, easygoing style to her music that anyone from all ages can relate to. I'm proud to have her on tour with me!"
